Use and precedence

The AF 9200 standard contains the proposed requirements. This supporting document supplies guidance, model controls or records within its stated purpose. Complete the local scope, parameters, roles and authority before operational use. A completed template does not establish conformity or permission.

Applicable legal and competent-authority obligations remain independently binding. No AF recognition, accreditation, statutory approval or operational authorization is created by this document. Codes in this set are proposed identifiers for the newly prepared supporting collection.

Record completion

Where fillable fields are provided, use a PDF reader that supports interactive forms. Blank fields remain unresolved. Attach controlled evidence by identifier where space is insufficient. Typed names are not certificate-based digital signatures. Preserve the completed record and its history under the local retention rules.

1 Purpose and use

These register sheets support continuing visibility across the AF 9200 system. They are fillable extracts for controlled use, not a substitute for a database where scale requires one. Use one row per item and link to the full record. Repeat sheets under controlled local numbering when needed. Blank rows are unused, not evidence of completeness.

Preserve unique IDs, baseline, owner, state, validity and history. Review registers at the relevant operational and management gates. Data migration must preserve relationships and decision meaning, not only file counts.

2 Obligation and notification register

AF 9200 references: 2, 4, 15. Use actual applicable obligations. Define notification clocks by start event and escalation.
